

Duke Office of Information Technology

Additional Resources Available

dCal

As with email, OIT recommends contacting your local IT support person for information on which calendar system your department uses. OIT offers a calendar system called dCal to all members of the Duke community free of charge.

DukePass

DukePass is the student portal for Duke

Security

The University IT Security Office serves the academic and administrative portions of university by assisting in education, providing security information and services, and acting as the contact point for IT security and abuse issues.

- ? File Sharing
- ? Policies
- ? Laptop Security

Computer Training

OIT provides free workshop sessions on some popular software applications. Feel free to browse the training website for more information.

Froshlife

Duke's Froshlife event is one of America's premier college/university digital movie festivals and is a signature event in each class' freshman experience. Now entering its seventh year, Froshlife has garnered regional and national media attention by bringing first-year Duke students together with video cameras and laptops to produce a story all about their first year at the Durham, N.C. university - in eight minutes or less.

Digital Media Services

Lots of services, from web conferencing to DukeCast are available through DMS (Digital Media Services).

Duke Digital Initiative

The Duke Digital Initiative (DDI) is a multi-year program of experimentation, development, and implementation of new and emerging technologies to explore their effective use in support of the university's mission.

Duke Office of Information Technology - www.oit.duke.edu - (919) 684-2200 - help@oit.duke.edu